A Funding Guide
to More Diverse Schools in California
2022-23
HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE

We created this guide as a public resource for educators and districts committed to diversifying the educator workforce and meeting the needs of diverse students.

The guide consists of two sections:

Section I highlights allocations and grants for individual applicants (e.g., prospective teachers, teacher candidates, or current teachers).

Section II outlines allocations and grants for organizational entities (e.g., local education agencies, school districts, & county offices of education).

“Adequately addressing the needs of our highly diverse K-12 population will require not only hiring educators of diverse backgrounds but also creating welcoming and affirming spaces and environments that can accommodate, sustain, and uplift our students and school communities. We created this guide as a public resource for educators, schools, and districts striving to provide equitable access to inclusive learning environments for all students. This guide spotlights how funding can be used to prioritize efforts to increase the diversity of the educator workforce and humanize the teaching profession. Our hope is that if used with intentionality, these allocations can expand access and opportunity for all TK-12 educational partners.

“Drawing from Paulo Freire’s (1970) work on humanization, humanizing education seeks to support the process of becoming more fully human, recognizing the full humanity of ourselves and those around us (our colleagues, our students, families, and communities), particularly those who have been historically (and may remain currently) marginalized by social structures and hierarchies. Humanizing education acknowledges and affirms our identities, experiences, and the goals we have for our own education and development.”

-Dr. Betina Hsieh, President, California Council on Teacher Education (CCTE)

President’s Message, Fall 2022 CCTE Conference
The California Coalition for Educator Diversity was established by UCLA’s Center for the Transformation of Schools to support the work of the California Educator Diversity Project. The Coalition is a collaborative effort brought forth by researchers, practitioners and advocates committed to advancing teacher diversity and equity in schools. Our collective mission is to diversify the California educator workforce by amplifying and elevating evidence-based and equity-centered policy, practice, and research.
SECTION I

Funds for Prospective Teachers, Teacher Candidates, or Current Teachers
Who is it for?
Students currently enrolled in a professional preparation program approved by the Commission on Teacher Credentialing (CTC) and working toward earning their preliminary teaching or pupil personnel services credential.

How can these funds be used to prioritize diversity?
GSTG awardees must commit to teaching for four years in a California Priority School. Priority schools have more than 55% of pupils classified as English Learners, eligible for free or reduced-price meals, or current foster youth. Financial burdens can often be a barrier for diverse teacher candidates entering the profession. Funding helps to offset the cost of schooling/tuition and incentivize teaching in priority schools.

How can these funds be used to humanize the teaching profession?
These funds can provide a greater opportunity for candidates to serve over a sustained period in priority schools, providing consistency for students who often are underserved in environments where there is high teacher/staff turnover. These funds also acknowledge the challenges that many first-generation and low-income teacher candidates may have in paying for high-quality teacher education programs and certification, and who are in their initial transition into teaching.

Changes to 2022 Legislation
Significant legislative changes are as follows:

- Expansion of application consideration to students who have enrolled in or applied for enrollment in an eligible professional preparation program.
- Elimination of the requirement for a preliminary teaching credential to be issued in a high-need field.
- Eligibility expansion to include those enrolled in a professional preparation program leading to a pupil personnel services credential.
- Requirement to complete professional preparation program and obtain credential within three years after the first distribution of grant funds.
- Extension of the obligation time frame to complete four years’ service at a priority school from five years to eight years.

Eligibility & Where to Apply
To be eligible for the GSTG, a student must meet the following criteria:

- Be enrolled in a California-based professional preparation program approved by the Commission on Teacher Credentialing (CTC);
- Maintain satisfactory academic progress (SAP); and
- Be working toward a preliminary teaching or pupil personnel services credential.
- Submit a Free Application for Federal Student Aid or CA Dream Act Application
- Complete their program and obtain their credential within three years from the first distribution of GSTG funds.
- Commit to work at a priority school in California for four years within eight years of completing their program.

Deadline to Apply: March 31, 2023.

Who is it for?

The subsidy grant is for teachers who are interested in pursuing National Board certification and are teaching at a high-priority school.

The incentive grant is for current National Board-certified teachers who are assigned to teach at a high-priority school at least 50% of the time.

How can these funds be used to prioritize diversity?

Awardees must commit to teaching for five years in a high-priority school. A high-priority school is currently defined as a school with 55% or more of its pupils (unduplicated) classified as an English learner, foster youth, or eligible for free or reduced-price meals. In addition, the cost of pursuing National Board certification can be prohibitive to teachers with limited resources.

How can these funds be used to humanize the teaching profession?

The funds can support teachers working in high-priority schools where there is often high turnover of teachers and staff. These additional funds for teachers also acknowledge the financial burden of this added certification and the professionalism of undergoing this additional certification.

- Individuals with active military status as of July 1, 2022, or who retired or separated as of July 1, 2021, or
- Dependent family members of military personnel who are pursuing a California credential.

How can these funds be used to prioritize diversity?

- Remove barriers for candidates facing socio-economic challenges.
- Prioritize candidates aiming to fill high needs areas including SPED, high needs schools, etc.
- EPPs can target communication of these opportunities to candidates with historically marginalized identities.

- Allow for evidence collection around changing examination policies.

Eligible individuals can register and schedule five concurrent examinations and/or assessments and fees will be waived, while funds remain. Although there is no limit to the total number of fees waived, a test-taker can be actively registered for only five concurrent assessments/subtests. Integrated Teacher Preparation Programs

Who is it for?
Public/private institutions of higher education looking to develop and implement integrated teacher preparation programs. Integrated Teacher Preparation Programs allow teacher candidates to receive their credentials simultaneously while obtaining their bachelor degrees; grants up to $250K (for planning grants) and $500K (for implementation grant) are available to institutions of higher education (IHEs).

How can these funds be used to prioritize diversity?
- An avenue to prioritize/expand diversity could be the integration of bilingual authorization, early childhood, and special education pathways in ITPPs.
- Differences in financial aid for undergraduate education allow ITPPs to be more financially appealing for candidates who qualify for financial aid.
- ITPP grants aim to create four-year integrated preparation programs that include partnering with community colleges to develop integrated programs (and potentially expand potential pool of teacher candidates).

How can these funds be used to humanize the teaching profession?
- ITPPs that are in the cohort/residency/internship models can provide environments that allow for greater mentoring and cohesion for teacher candidates over an extended period of time. This can humanize the profession by allowing for developmental support over time.
- According to RFA, funds can be used to provide time/space for supporting candidates/teacher preparation efforts (e.g., funding faculty release time for course redesign, stipends for program coordinators).

Who is it for?

IHEs or nonprofit organizations who partner with a county office of education (COE) or consortium of COEs.

The grant supports professional learning opportunities for teachers and paraprofessionals across the state.

How can these funds be used to prioritize diversity?

• Funds can be used to support the 2020 Ethnic Studies Model Curriculum, which supports providing a diverse learning environment for K-12 students.

• Funds can be used for special education professional development enhancing a learning space for a diversity of learners.

• Enhancement of computer science curricula and instruction creates more robust, variable pathways for students to navigate their learning.

How can these funds be used to humanize the teaching profession?

Professional learning for teachers and paraprofessionals can be used to support practices and strategies that create a positive school climate, including social-emotional learning and restorative justice.

ELIGIBILITY

Positive consideration will be given to applicants that propose to partner with a county office of education (COE) or a consortium of COEs.

The applicant needs to be a higher education institution or nonprofit organization, and activities need to align with the statewide system of support.

To the extent practicable, grantees need to coordinate activities with the California Subject Matter Projects.

WHERE TO APPLY

To apply, access the Grant Web Pages and Timelines, which includes RFA release dates and application due dates for the various grants.

However, as of 11/26/2022 RFA release and application due dates for the Positive School Climate, Social-Emotional Learning, and Restorative Justice and Ethnic Studies grants are listed as canceled.

Deadline to Apply: TBD
LEAs in partnership with local community college district, prioritizing high-priority LEAs, defined as those that meet any of the criteria:

- Fifty percent or more unduplicated pupils (English learners, students from low-income families, and youth in the foster care system)
- Higher than state average dropout rate
- Higher than state average suspension and expulsion rates
- Lower than state average rate of A-G completion

By using these funds to cultivate programs in middle and high schools that enable communities to “grow their own” teachers, this grant program has the potential to affirm the humanity of teachers by developing teachers with the varied class, social, and linguistic backgrounds represented within their community. Also, if these programs are developed intentionally to value the strengths within their community and make schools and teaching more affirming for students, it will connect those students to their teachers and teaching as people.

The grants can be used for districts to plan and implement new career pathway programs in targeted career areas, including education. Utilizing these grants to develop “grow your own” teacher development programs in communities with high need districts can recruit and develop more diverse educators from within their own community. Golden State Pathways Program prioritizes a few general pathways: education, computer science, health care and climate resilience involving science, technology, engineering and mathematics.

ELIGIBILITY

No application necessary. Funds allocated on the basis of an equal amount per certificated and classified full-time equivalent. A local plan for the Educator Effectiveness Funds needs to be heard in a public meeting of the governing board of the school district, the county board of education, or governing body of the charter school before its adoption in a subsequent public meeting. This must take place on or before March 31, 2023.

CHANGES IN 2022 BUDGET

Assembly Bill (AB) 181 (2022) added the preschool learning foundations to the list of subject areas. Additionally, AB 181 added language that allowed the EEF to be utilized for coursework that would allow existing staff to become credentialed, fully credentialed for their assignment, or meet the statutory requirements to expand transitional kindergarten.

The 2022-23 budget also updated the expectation that a local plan for the EEF needs to be heard in a public meeting of the governing board of the school district, the county board of education, or governing body of the charter school, before its adoption in a subsequent public meeting. This must take place on or before March 31, 2023.
To the extent that California’s classified school employees are more diverse, their entrance into the credentialed teacher population will help diversify the workforce and ensure that it better reflects the state’s student population.

How can these funds be used to humanize the teaching profession?

California’s classified school employees are familiar with the working environment, culture and climate, and assets/needs of parents and students within schools; as such, they understand the nature of the work and can serve as experienced voices at sites and as supportive colleagues for peer educators.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must submit an electronic copy of the entire grant application by email AND two paper copies of the same to the commission office by the December 9 deadline.

To be considered, applicants need to provide a narrative response addressing all selection criteria (outlined in RFA and maximum? points awarded for each element, pgs. 8-10) as well as a cover page with contacts. See p. 13 of RFA for format and page limits.
